FME is an autonomous organization created through the support of local mining companies in the Antofagasta region of Chile.

FME seeks to develop people and communities through micro and social entrepreneurship programs, supporting and promoting the development of new business that will grow local economies.

Northern Chilean port city with a population of ~345,000 developed almost entirely around the mining industry.

Defined social entrepreneurship, identified best practice organizations across industries and geographies, and built a framework to measure sustainable intent and impact of projects.

Framework for Assessment of Community Development Initiatives

Framework is intended to capture the spectrum of community investment and development projects undertaken by organizations, determine their focus, and assess the longevity of the initiative’s intended effect.
