

Indra Nooyi
President and Chief Financial Officer
PepsiCo, Inc.

Indra Nooyi is president and chief financial officer for PepsiCo, Inc. In this position, she is responsible for all of PepsiCo's corporate functions, including finance, strategy, supply chain, business process optimization, corporate platforms, insights and innovation, procurement, investor relations, and information technology. Prior to assuming her current position in May 2001, Nooyi was senior vice president and CFO, and SVP of corporate strategy and development.

She has played key roles in the Tricon spin-off, the purchase of Tropicana, the public offering of Pepsi Cola Bottling Group, and the acquisition of Quaker Foods.

Before joining PepsiCo, Nooyi was senior vice president of strategy and strategic marketing for Asea Brown Boveri and vice president and director of corporate strategy and planning at Motorola.

A graduate of Madras Christian College in India with a degree in Chemistry, Physics, and Math, she earned a master's degree in Finance and Marketing from the Indian Institute of Management in Calcutta. She also holds a master's degree in Public and Private Management from Yale University's School of Organization and Management. In addition to being a member of the board of directors of PepsiCo, Inc., Nooyi serves as Successor Fellow at Yale Corporation.

She is a member of the boards of Motorola, the International Rescue Committee, and Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts in New York City. Nooyi also serves on the advisory boards of Yale School of Management, PlaNet Finance, and Greenwich Breast Cancer Alliance, as well as, on the board of trustees of Eisenhower Fellowships and Asia Society. She is a member of The Trilateral Commission. Nooyi and her husband, Raj, live with their two daughters in Greenwich, Connecticut.